The low cost coal mines can pay the miners 14 per cent more in wages without increasing the cost of the product. High-cost coal mines cannot and since for the sake of getting production these mines must be permitted to raise their prices it inevitably follows that all soft coal price increases must be sanctioned.

The railroads are said to consume 50 per cent of the coal mined. Some of the lines can perhaps afford to accept a 14 per cent increase in their fuel without passing the burden on. But probably a request for permission to raise freight rates on the ground of increased costs.

Weathy shippers might be asked to pay 14 per cent more for the transpor tation of their wares without putting that cost into the prices of the goods. pere, the struggling enterprise, the newly launched business. America is troubled with one of the most vexatious problems in her career. Nobody begrudges the wage-earners their higher wages. But only here and there, in strictly localized areas, can wages be given a general boost without causing a general lifting of prices all along the line. The section hand hits one end of a rail with his hammer The vibration travels to the other end of the rail. Nothing can stop it. Neither can the wisest man devise a scheme whereby costs are added to one commodity without affecting the price of a thousand other commodities.

GOVERNMENT STINGINESS.

Only a few years ago a government job was something to becoveted. The fortunate individual who landed a berth in some department at Washington or in the postal service was paid a salary higher than his acquaintances in civil life were getting. Today conditions are reversed. The government has not increased the wages of its employes to keep pace with the advance in living costs and government salaries are far below the standards existing in civilian occupations. Girls and boys fresh from school are being paid as much as old and invaluable government employes That there is an alarming slowing up and loss of efficiency in the postal ser vice and other governmental fields is not at all surprising. The wonder is that niggardly compensation has not completely paralyzed these branches of

On the contrary, the men who are back of the cow testing association, boosting the organization and going on with the work from year to year, are the most intelligent, wide-awake, and broad visioned farmers of their different communities. They are the men who believe in the farm bureau, the state agricultural association, and similar co-operative agricultural enterprises. Such man realize and appreciate the value of carefully kept records on their dairy herds; the study with the aid of the tester, of economical feeds and methods of feeding; the use of purebred herd sires; the value of the purebred cow, and the interchange of ideas and opinions with each other at the monthly meetings and social gatherings of the cow testing association.

The Cow Testing association nelps the dairyman because: 1-It furnishes him with a reasonably accurate record concerning the milk and butterfat production, and the profit in dollars and cents over and above the cost of feed, on every cow in his herd. Cow testing association records have been proved to be accurate for all practical purposes not only by experimental work of the experiment stations, but also by men who have herds on test in the association. One man in the Palmyra association who kept a daily record throughout the year of the milk produced per cow found very little variation from the results obtained by the tester in his monthly averages. Through the intelligent use of these records, the former learns the comparative value of each cow in his herd as a profit-producer; he is enabled much more efficiently to cull out the boarders, and save the good animals, in fact the cow testing association saves as many slaughtered, as it condemns. 2-It teaches him to feed each cow cording to her production of mill and butterfat. This alone not only helps to increase the flow of milk from the whole herd, but also cuts down the feed cost and increases the profits. One man in the Palmyra association not only increased the flow of milk five pounds daily per cow, but also saved fifty dollars in one month by feeding more accurately.

3-It advises him in the use of the right kinds of feeds, the balanced ration, the economical ration, and methods of handling cows to stimulate a greater production. One man raised his profits from the herd forty dollars in one month by selling his timothy hay and buying higher priced alfalfa to feed his cows. Another member increased his net profits in one month over thirty dollars by feeding a homemixed balanced ration, instead of a high priced commercial ready-mixed feed. Another man added a net profit of four dollars per cow per month to his income by grinding his feed and buying some high protein mill feeds to balance the ration. The possibilities in better feeding are unlimited. The writer has found very few dairymen feeding absolutely right to realize the most profits from the herd for any continuous length of time.

4-It teaches him to talk about his cows in terms of milk and butterfat production for a year. It does away with the hit-or-miss-method of judging dairy animals.

Those of us who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when we arise; splitting headache, stuffy from a cold; foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, lame back, can, instead, both look and feel as fresh as a daisy always by washing the poisons and oxins from the body with phosphated not water each morning.

It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases waste and acidity and gives one splendid appetite for breakfast and it is said to be but a little while until the roses begin to appear in the cheeks. A quarter pound of limestone phosphate will cost very little at the drug store, but is sufficient to make anyone who is bothered with biliousness, constipation, stomach trouble or rheumatism a real enthusiast on the subject of internal sanitation. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which removes the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of water-you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys will act fine.
